DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Amada et al. (4,409,559).

Regarding claims 1, 4, Amada (Fig. 6) disclose an amplifier system comprising: at least one pair of switches (3, 4 and 33, 34) can be read as a bridge circuit with; and a signal compressor circuit (127) can be read as a supply ripple pre- compensation circuit for compensating voltage ripples on a supply voltage (9) supplied to the bridge circuit (3, 4 and 33, 34), see ABSTRACT; wherein the supply ripple pre-compensation circuit coupled to input signal (1, 31), thus compensates the voltage ripples on the supply voltage based on the input signal.

Regarding claim 5, wherein analog logic circuit (37) operable as a combination circuit for combining plurality of input signals and generating an output signal (OUT) to signal compressor circuit (127).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Amada et al.

Amada et al. disclose(s) claimed invention except the filter claimed. However, it is well known in the art that adding filter will only enhance overall circuit operation, such as filtering out desired signal etc. As such, providing a filter to a reference circuit to filter out desired audio signal would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art.

Claims 1-3, 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Robinson et al. (6,982,593).

Robinson et al. disclose claimed invention except the amplifier is Class-D amplifier or bridge circuit includes at least one pair of switches. Robinson et al. (Figs. 1 or 2) disclose a general switching amplifier. However, it is well known in the art that switching amplifier comprises at least a pair of switches, wherein a digital control (42) can be a digital signal processor (DSP) operable as a supply ripple pre- compensation circuit for compensating voltage ripples on a DC/DC converter (58), which can be read as a supply voltage supplied to the switching amplifier (56). Note, applicant's compensation circuit may be one of digital controller such as DSP, see [0026]; wherein the digital control (42) coupled to input signal, thus compensates the voltage ripples on the supply voltage based on the input signal. Regarding filter claimed, it is well known in the art that adding filter will only enhance overall circuit operation, such as filtering out desired signal etc. As such, providing a filter to a reference circuit to filter out desired audio signal would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6, 11-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 6, 11-14 call for, among others, method and apparatus of squaring audio signal by a squaring device as claimed.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
